Nung was an exceptional student, and she took her studies seriously. She set herself a challenging goal to learn 100 English vocabulary words every day! She might not have known any English when she started, but her hard work and perseverance quickly paid off. She was soon able to speak English fluently, thanks to the classes at the Adventist English language center, and her practice with native English speakers.

But that's not all Nung gained from the language center; it also introduced her to Jesus. Nung and her mother were among the first to attend the center's weekly Sabbath worship services. At the start, there were only seven people in attendance, but now, more than 100 people come every week! Nung and her mother found a new faith in Jesus and gave up their Buddhist beliefs.

NARRATION

CN. 05

In some parts of Laos, it can be challenging to spread the word of Jesus, but the Adventist English language center has been a game-changer. It's an innovative way to teach an essential skill while also sharing the gospel. The English language center is not the first initiative to spread the message of Adventists in the region. A few years ago, a missionary family introduced the Lao people to Jesus, but they had to leave due to war, leaving a handful of new believers behind.

The Church is determined to re-establish the Adventist presence in the region. They plan to build a bilingual primary school that will provide a Christian international environment for families with children. Our faith-driven Promise offerings are making this and many more projects like it, a reality. These initiatives are essential in reaching out to people and spreading the word of Jesus in northern Laos and worldwide.

Nung's story is a testament to the power of determination, hard work, and faith. With the right mindset, anyone can overcome any obstacle and achieve their goals. And the Adventist English language center is an example of how an initiative that started small has grown to impact the lives of many. This week, as you return the Tithes and Promise, regular and systematic offerings, remember that your contribution will make a difference and help to ignite more stories like Nung's. May we put our desires last, and God first.
