- I'm not sure why I was the only girl from Fortaleza at the Youth Spiritual Retreat of the Adventist Church in Manaus. Probably, the 4.000 kilometers between the two places (laugh)... I had no idea that in the city, located in the heart of the Brazilian Amazon rainforest, I would meet the other half of my heart: Luiz Pinho.

- During the event, we both knew that something bigger than a simple friendship was going on.

- So, I decided to pray, asking God if Luiz would be the one "chosen" by Him.

- With God's approval, we started dating.

- Long-distance dating.

- Yes. But even living so far from each other, our love came as the answer to a prayer and in God's appointed time, which is ever the right time. And here we are! Married.

- Do you wanna know a funny thing? He kept a secret from me for years. A good one though, which, He only revealed after we were married. Can I tell them?

- Sure, go for it!

- Ok, so he came to me and said, "Evellyze, when we were engaged, I was so grateful to God for finding you, that I decided to raise the percentage of my Promise." It was the most beautiful thing he ever told me!

Luiz is a strong believer in the concept of "Promise," the percentage-based regular offering, meaning that besides the tithe, he gives back to God part of his income as offering, a proportion of the blessings received. And what a blessing he has! Evelyze and Luiz are now parents of a baby boy, Benicio, and members of the Torres Church in Manaus, Brazil.
