Pastor's Pastor: Fifteen ways to raise your raise

VENUE: C-SPAN Senate Chaplain Rear Admiral, Barry Black (Ret.)

Editorial - God First

Rediscovering Our True Identity

What if, 12,000 of us are to be "just what we are," and not what we have to become? Are we all capable of being who we already are? We might be surprised by the answer. It is about the meaning and ethical implications for our daily life. They have to do with our identity. It is about the meaning and ethical implications for our daily life. They have to do with our identity.

PROVE HIM NOW

When the Lord enters your life, He will call you to prove Him. This is a vital part of your Christian walk. It is an opportunity to demonstrate your commitment to the Lord and His will in your life.

Recently I listened as several administrators debated whether they could bring in new students with private dollars, while the state was cutting aid. The administrators were struggling to make ends meet with declining support from public sources. They were facing the dilemma of not being able to distribute funds that desperately need this small increase just to keep up with inflation. I also understand the dilemma of not being able to distribute funds that desperately need this small increase just to keep up with inflation. They are most likely to see billboards slogans that say: “Safety First”, “Health First”, “Safety First”, “Health First”, or “Education First”. The question is whether these two simple words convey a deeper meaning. They probably do with our identity. It is about the meaning and ethical implications for our daily life. They have to do with our identity. It is about the meaning and ethical implications for our daily life. They have to do with our identity.
